- Real Person Reaction: 1) Regarding the writing style of the text on the site, it would make more sense to start with the project description and then provide individual details; the current approach doesn't look very professional. 2) I don't think the project promotional image is sufficient; perhaps a video or more photos could be included to make presenting the project easier.
- The "Still Ugly" List:
 - Responsive mode is available on the site, but since there are currently only two buttons in the navbar, I didn't feel the need for a hamburger menu; however, if the number of buttons increases in the future, a hamburger menu might be required.(photo 1)
 - The contact section looks like it was created just for the sake of having one; it appears very plain and empty.(Photo 2)
